Polo Grounds, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Waite Hoyt, the pink faced Brooklyn high school boy, added another sparkling jewel to his hero's crown here this afternoon when he won for the second time a world series game for the Yankees defeating the Giants three to one.

The victory made the count three and two in games for the series and gave the Giants a severe setback, who had looked upon the victory in this game as the turning point in the series. Hoyt started off poorly in the first inning when the Giants got their only run of the game.

McNally fumbled Burns' boulder and started trouble. Frisch singled off the young pitcher's glove and Young walked, filling the bases. Geo. Kelly came through with a single, the only Giant run of the game. Art. Nehf, the southpaw pitcher, started off in brilliant form but Young got him, however, in the third inning when McNally reached third on Schang's double and scoring on Miller's sacrifice fly.

The crowd looked to number about 25,000 when the umpires came on the field. There were hundreds of vacant seats behind the posts and in the far corner of the upper stands, but the bleachers were packed solidly.

Captains Bancroft and Peck gave their lineup to Umpire Rigler who was in charge of the game.

Giants Hit Their Gait

New York, Oct. 10.—The Giants and Yankees were on the square when they entered the fifth game of the world series today but the former were coming and the latter were going.

McGraw's outfit slaughtered the American League in the last two starts. Only yesterday they soundly trounced Huggins' pitching ace, Carl Mays. The score was 4 to 2.

But perhaps the most significant thing in this defeat of Mays was the fact that he apparently lost none of his "stuff" but the Giants began to hit and forgot to stop, and they got nine safely off Mays' bat.

The only Giant pitcher hit hard was Fred Toney, whom Barnes relieved in Friday's game.

With the Yankees, Waite Hoyt stood out as the only hurler with a clean record up to today. His two hit shut-out in two games was by far the finest performance in the series to date.

Mays after his unmerciful initial shutout was pounded yesterday. Shawkey, Jack Quinn, Rip Collins, Tom Rogers all proving easy in Friday's batting orgy, Huggins had in reserve only Harry Harper as yet untied in the series.

Batteries for the game today were announced as: Yankees, Hoyt and Schang; Giants, Nehf and Snyder.

Sunday's game gave the Giants a victory of four to two. Luck was against Carl Mays. He had the stuff but the Giants would hit. They got nine off Mays' delivery. Yankees hit Phil Douglas for seven safeties, but they did not come at the right time.

One of the Yankees' pair was a homer made by Babe Ruth, his first in the series.

Consider Co-operative
Livestock Marketing In Chicago November 10

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Oct. 10.—Plans for a national live stock marketing agency will be accepted or rejected by stockmen at a meeting in Chicago next month.

The "committee of fifteen" appointed by the American farm bureau federation to investigate the problem of marketing livestock co-operatively, will report in Chicago, November 10.

Cooperative livestock marketing associations in Minnesota recognized in Minnesota market laws have formed the model for most of the national plan to be laid before the stockmen of the country, according to W. G. McKerrow, member of the committee.

Marketing livestock cooperatively will not only save the producers money, but will prevent flooding of markets, a condition which works out disastrously to producers, commission houses and packers.

Los Angeles, Oct. 10.—While chemists were expected to be called in today to help determine the cause of the death of Al Stein, motion picture director, Mildred Bellwin and Jean Munroe, studio extra girls, were held by the police to await the outcome of the investigation.

Stein was found dead in his apartment, and the coroner expressed a belief that alcoholism caused his death. They ordered a post mortem to clear up the mystery angle of the case which seemed to indicate a "triangle" with points reaching into the studio life which has been under investigation since the death of Virginia Rappe and the arrest of Roscoe Arbuckle.

Long before President Harding's unemployment conference met to take up the solution of that problem, Brainerd and Crow Wing county set about to do what they could to meet the conditions which might affect this section.

Although Brainerd has occupied a white spot on commercial maps of the nation, still it never pays to bank too much on history but to always prepare for the future.

Crow Wing county saw that county labor was employed on road jobs and county farmers secured much employment as teamsters and in other work.

Brainerd has a large sewer program and the work can be carried on to advantage in the late fall. Bids are being asked for the construction of 1526 lineal feet of 10 inch vitrified sewer pipe; 589 lineal feet of 8 inch vitrified sewer pipe.

FIRST WORLD'S PRESS CONGRESS OPENS TONIGHT

(By United Press)

Honolulu, Oct. 10.—The first Press Congress of the World opens here tonight with practically every civilized country represented.

This was generally regarded as the initial step in formation of an international "league of newspapers," devoted to promotion of world peace and a better understanding between nations.

The opening session was scheduled for night to permit hundreds of delegates arriving from the United States on the steamer Matsonia to get their "land legs." It was devoted to addresses of welcome and responses. After tomorrow's session, when committees will be appointed and a message read from Warren G. Harding, publisher of the Marion Star, an adjournment will be taken until October 17.

In the interim the delegates will devote themselves to recreation and sightseeing. Speakers at the first formal session after reconvening will be Walter Williams, dean of the Missouri School of Journalism and president of the congress; Mark Cohen, editor of the Dunedin (New Zealand) Evening Star; Thales Coutoupis, editor and manager of Nea Ellas, Athens; Ludvig Saxe, editor of Verdens Gang, Christiania; K. Sugimura, editorial writer of Asahi Shimbun, Tokio; W. D. Hornaday, professor of journalism, University of Texas; Walter B. Pitkin, professor of philosophy, Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, and Hollington T. Kong, editor of the Weekly Review of the Far East, Peking.

Other speakers during the congress, which concludes October 21, will be: Virgilio Rodriguez Beteta, Central American Press Association, Guatemala City; Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor of the National Magazine, Boston; Mrs. Georgina Townsend, editor of the Southern California Women's Press Association, Los Angeles; Dr. Mien Mu T. Make a Writing Pad.

A writing pad, to be successful, must be solid and of good size. A board half an inch thick, nine by twelve inches, makes the best pad. Buy half a yard of black elastic, half an inch wide, the strongest you can get, overlap the ends and sew firmly together into the form of a belt. Slip this over the end of the board. It will keep in place both blotting and writing paper and can be moved up and down the board as you need it. On a windy day it is invaluable, setting both hands free.

QUESTION OF TREE PLANTING

Problem Is Worthy of Very Much More Consideration Than Is Usually Given It.

What kind of tree should one plant beside one's home? asks Good House-keeping. Obviously it should be a fast grower. Also it should be ornamental. Preferably it should give a shade that is lofty and not too dense. A productive tree will answer as well as one that is merely ornamental. If a grafted tree is planted rather than a seedling it will produce in a very few years.

Nut trees are both ornamental and productive. The black walnut and the pecan seem to be well suited to this sort of planting. Why not try one or the other, or possibly both, one on each side of the house?

The black walnut is a rapid grower, reaches large size, and has foliage of great beauty. A mature tree will produce a great quantity of nuts. The pecan is also large and beautiful, as well as long-lived. Among the most beautiful and stately of the trees at Mount Vernon are pecan trees planted by George Washington and still in excellent condition. Commonly one thinks of the pecan as a tree for warm latitudes only. Both it and the English walnut will thrive much farther north than is commonly supposed. For planting near the house, then, the black walnut, the pecan or a good shagbark tree would be an excellent choice. The foliage of the walnut is always beautiful and in the fall the leaves of both the hickory and the pecan are symphonies in brown.

More Consoling.

HOME TOWN HELPS

QUESTION OF TREE PLANTING

Problem Is Worthy of Very Much More Consideration Than Is Usually Given It.

What kind of tree should one plant beside one's home? asks Good Housekeeping. Obviously it should be a fast grower. Also it should be ornamental. Preferably it should give a shade that is lofty and not too dense. A productive tree will answer as well as one that is merely ornamental. If a grafted tree is planted rather than a seedling it will produce in a very few years.

Nut trees are both ornamental and productive. The black walnut and the pecan seem to be well suited to this sort of planting. Why not try one or the other, or possibly both, one on each side of the house?

The black walnut is a rapid grower, reaches large size, and has foliage of great beauty. A mature tree will produce a great quantity of nuts. The pecan is also large and beautiful, as well as long-lived. Among the most beautiful and stately of the trees at Mount Vernon are pecan trees planted by George Washington and still in excellent condition. Commonly one thinks of the pecan as a tree for warm latitudes only. Both it and the English walnut will thrive much farther north than is commonly supposed. For planting near the house, then, the black walnut, the pecan or a good shagbark tree would be an excellent choice. The foliage of the walnut is always beautiful and in the fall the leaves of both the hickory and the pecan are symphonies in brown.

What Clothes Does Your Family Need?

HAVE you gone over the family wardrobe? Every one needs so many clothes this time of year. With out Piece-Goods counters so alluring with their wealth of challis, cashmere, flannel and prints for the children's clothes and with velvet brocade, satin, serge, twill, velours and duvetyn for you to revel in, it would be hard to have to deny any member of the family all the clothes desired.

And the styles are so tempting too—Little tots may dress like the children in picture-books, while their big sisters and mothers may assume the classic dignity of the fashionable long, slim lines.

AGNESS G. KINNARD A PLEASING SINGER

Gave Program of Unusual Variety and Interest at Brainerd Musical Club Saturday

MRS. J. A. THABES WAS HOSTESS

First Club Concert Announced as in October, Probably Sunday Afternoon, October 23
(By B. M. C.)

At the first meeting of the Brainerd Musical club, on Saturday, Agness Griswold Kinnard gave a program of unusual variety and interest before a large, attentive audience. Miss Kinnard possesses a pleasing appearance, and a voice of unusual sweetness. Her last group, being in English, was most appreciated and of this group "A Memory", by Ganz, was the favorite.

Mrs. J. A. Thabes, the new president, modestly gave all the credit for the increased membership to her efficient membership committee, under the leadership of Mrs. J. L. Frederick. She named the personnel of this committee the Social Welfare and the Literary.

She stated that the Social Welfare committee was planning to give financial assistance to the library, and their activities would be given publicity from time to time. The chairman of this committee is Mrs. Mal Clark. She regretted that the literary chairman—Mrs. A. C. Weber, was obliged to be away, being a delegate to the M. F. W. C. convention at Owatonna, and could not give a detailed account of her plans for the year. A part of the program will probably be arranged for before Mrs. Weber's return, and will deal with art in the home. On request for a showing of hands of those who would be interested in a series of talks on that subject, about a third of the audience indicated their interest.

Mrs. Thabes also spoke of the house committee of whom Mrs. W. C. Mannis is chairman.

The first concert was announced as coming in October. The exact date was not given, as these dates are frequently subject to change. But, unless there is a change, it will be given Sunday afternoon, October 23, one week from next Sunday.

Bethlehem Lutheran Aid

On Saturday, October 15, the Bethlehem Lutheran Ladies Aid will have their supper and apron sale. This aid always draws large attendances.

Baraca Class

The mens' Baraca class of the Baptist church will meet in their monthly business and social meeting Tuesday night, this week, at the home of F. G. Cutler, 311 No. 5th St. All men of the church and their friends are invited, and requested to be present.

A Tribute to Mrs. Sophia Walters

(From a Member of the W. C. T. U.)

Mrs. Sophie Walters, is dead, come way,
Kiss her and leave her, thy love is clay.
They smoothed her lovely white tresses of hair
On her forehead of stone they lay—
ed it fair,
Over her eyes, that gazed so much,
They drew the lids, with a gentle touch.

And over her bosom, they crossed her hands,
"Come away", they said, "God Understands."
Her work in the W. C. T. U. is finished.
Farewell, dear relatives and friends on earth.
Where I am, you too, shall dwell some day,
I have gone on before you.

A moment's time, a little space,
When you come where I have slept
You will wonder why you wept; for me
How sweet and peaceful are the joys
The Christian only knows.
They have the Saviour for their friend.

PAVING TO ST CLOUD OPEN NOVEMBER 10

St. Cloud Journal Press—On November 10 you can crank up your flivver and ride from St. Cloud to Minneapolis and St. Paul, and beyond, on a well paved highway.

Engineer Chard of Sherburne county, in the city yesterday, after an inspection of progress, definitely stated that the opening day for the paving from the reformatory crossing to Becker would be on that date. The paving from Becker to Minneapolis has been in use for some time.

By Saturday night the gap between Clear Lake and Becker will be completed and also between Cable and the reformatory crossing. The only bit uncompleted will be between Dead Man's crossing and the Cater farms, which will be finished easily next week. The contractors, McCree-Moos Company, have made a good record despite a somewhat poor start and will have the job finished before the specified limit. They are doing a good job. Engineer Chard stated:

"The paving put down this year is better than that laid last year, and is much better than that made before between Elk River and Anoka. For smooth riding qualities it is much better than any paving in the city of St. Cloud, which cost a great deal more money."

It has been suggested that St. Cloud stage a celebration on the opening day, by a picnic at Riverside park, to which delegations from all the cities and villages along the paved highway be invited. We pass the suggestion along to the Automobile Commercial and Kiwanis clubs. As an example of real building this paved highway opens a new era, and is the gateway to a wonderful system of trunk line highways all over Minnesota.

GIRL HIKER KILLED ON ROAD

Tragic Accident Emphasizes Danger. Hikers Tabooed by Restaurants and Residents in Some Places

The death of Miss Florence Hub, a school teacher of Elmhurst, New York, caused by a leap from a taxi which she and a young woman companion had hired to complete a hike from Albany to New York, is one of the many recent hiking reports received by the National Board of the Y. W. C. A.

Young girls are not only being discouraged from hiking unchaperoned across the country, but in some localities the khaki clad hikers are being tabooed by restaurant keepers and residents of the towns through which they pass. During the last three months nearly 100 girl hikers, most of them from the east, have passed through Denver, all of them with little money and less baggage, it is said. Many of them as a part of their "lark" beg their way from motors, wagons or freight-cars.

"It is this condition that we try to discourage," says Mrs. M. T. Bryant of the Y. W. C. A. Employment Bureau in Denver, Colorado. "At least twenty girls have come to me to ask for jobs in order to earn enough to get to the next town. Very few of them have cared enough to send or carry fresh clothes. So it is impossible for them to secure jobs. What business man wants to employ girls dressed in khaki trousers and flannel shirts?"

Brainerd Business & Professional Womens' Club Meets Tuesday Evening at Club Rooms

MUCH INTEREST IN CLASSES

Mrs. A. J. Serviss of St. Paul of National Federation, Comments on Brainerd Visit.

The Business and Professional Women's club will hold its monthly business meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the club rooms in the Lyceum building. All members are requested to be present, as a number of important matters are to be discussed. Those who have not paid their dues may pay them to Miss Michael either before or after meeting.

A great interest is being taken in the classes, and it is hoped that basketry, cooking and sewing classes will be started next week. The gymnasium class will meet at the Y. M. C. A. this (Monday) evening floor work starting at seven-thirty, basket ball at eight-thirty. Miss Engsborg will lead the class.

As stated before, the regular business meeting will be on Tuesday evening, and on Thursday the Reading, Study and Dramatics class will meet at the home of Islay McColl. The reading of "The Garden of Allah" will be continued, a synopsis of the preceding chapters being given for the benefit of those unable to attend the last meeting. Some of the more unimportant parts of the book will be given in a short talk, and the main dramatic parts will be read by the different members.

The Sunday St. Paul Pioneer Press carried an article mentioning Mrs. Serviss' visit to the Brainerd club. Part of the article read as follows:

"Mrs. A. J. Serviss of St. Paul, vice president of the national federation and Mrs. J. R. McKellip, Fairbault, president of the state body, recently returned from a trip on which they visited many of the new clubs. Mrs. Serviss has spent much time in the Northern part of the state especially, where there is a general influx of new organizations.

Duluth, Brainerd, Albert Lea and Crookston, have organized since the state meeting in Fairbault in June. Requests for organization have been received from about eight towns, according to Mrs. Serviss. She visited recently the new club house where Brainerd club holds forth. It has 150 members and is carrying out an important program."

The Pioneer Press also states that the St. Paul Business and Professional Women's club has planned for its winter's program a series of get-togethers. Several classes are being formed, as well as the bowling club. The dancing and swimming classes are already planned, and it is expected that before long a hiking club will be under way. Horseback riding and skating clubs are also planned.

Fifteen members of the Brainerd club have signed up for the cooking class, fourteen for sewing, twenty for basketry, sixteen for bowling, and twenty for gym. Later on in the year a skating class will be organized.

The members are making good use of the comfortable club rooms provided in the Lyceum building. A few rugs have been purchased, also chairs and a table. Several chairs, pictures and a lot of sheet music have been given the club by different members. A large table lamp with a mahogany base and attractive silk shade is the gift of Fitzsimmons and Wagner. This lamp makes a very pleasing addition to the furniture and fittings of the club rooms.

A group of boys from Father Flanagan's Boys' Home in Omaha are making a tour throughout the state in the interest of its welfare. From recent reports received the entertainment which they present is one which would do justice to any arrangement of professional actors. Father Flanagan established this home for homeless boys about four years ago. Since then it has cared for 1250 boys, from seven to fifteen years of age. These boys who have been taken in were homeless, abandoned or wayward children cast out into the world on their own resources. Regardless of creed, color or nationality boys of this kind are received there with open arms, clothed and educated, so that they can stand abreast with our leading young citizens of America.

Their program which will be rendered at the Gardner Auditorium on Saturday night, October 15, at 8:15 o'clock is without charge and free to the public. It includes moving pictures, jiggling, elocution selections, orations and singing which are all interesting and entertaining.

There will be no reserved seats. Due to the fact that this is a unique and exceptional entertainment there is no doubt but that the auditorium will be completely filled.

Entertainment will start at 8:15 p. m. and is free to the public.

A group of boys from Father Flanagan's Boys' Home in Omaha are making a tour throughout the state in the interest of its welfare. From recent reports received the entertainment which they present is one which would do justice to any arrangement of professional actors. Father Flanagan established this home for homeless boys about four years ago. Since then it has cared for 1250 boys, from seven to fifteen years of age. These boys who have been taken in were homeless, abandoned or wayward children cast out into the world on their own resources. Regardless of creed, color or nationality boys of this kind are received there with open arms, clothed and educated, so that they can stand abreast with our leading young citizens of America.

Their program which will be rendered at the Gardner Auditorium on Saturday night, October 15, at 8:15 o'clock is without charge and free to the public. It includes moving pictures, juggling, elocution selections, orations and singing which are all interesting and entertaining.

There will be no reserved seats. Due to the fact that this is a unique and exceptional entertainment there is no doubt but that the auditorium will be completely filled.

Entertainment will start at 8:15 p. m. and is free to the public.

AMERICAN SINCERITY

As the date set for the conference upon the limitation of armaments approaches, all eyes are turned upon Washington. The utmost confidence is expressed that a great measure of good will come from this conference, called by President Harding to discuss certain phases of permanent peace.

President Harding some time ago spoke of the "God-given destiny of America" in leading the way to world peace. There is undoubtedly a new spirit of leadership permeating America. This is not altogether due to our wealth or power, to our unprejudiced position or limitless resources, but is largely due to the stark sincerity of our intentions, the fact that we have "no axe to grind," the knowledge that no ulterior motive is cloaked by our invitation to the nations of the world to gather in Washington and talk peace.

We will not enter the conference with the determination to get results, no matter what the cost to America. Our country will continue to flourish, no matter what happens in the conference. The people of the United States sincerely hope arms limitation will come. This is not a militarist country; the American instinct is to hate war. We are ready and willing to go a long way to lessen armaments, but we want it distinctly understood that we are not going alone when we do go.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN 1914-1921

While there are now perhaps 3,500,000 less people at work than there were in 1920, when more people were at work than ever before in the history of the country, in 1914, when times were supposed to be normal, the unemployed numbered 7,000,000 and the ratio of the unemployed to the total number of workers in 1914 was greater by a very wide margin than is true today.

Records show that the unprecedented idleness in 1913 and 1914 was due to the fact that the Underwood Democratic tariff had begun to get in its work. Unemployment began to increase at once following its enactment, as industries began to slow down because of the increasing flow of foreign importations. Prosperous times decreased and unemployment increased until the precipitation of war in Europe, with its consequent demand upon this country for all sorts of material, stepped in to suspend automatically the baneful effects of the Democratic tariff.

To get a true perspective and a fair conclusion as to the real industrial situation today, the unemployment figures of today must be read in relation to the winter of 1913-14, compared to which we are very much better off.

EMPLOYMENT INCREASING

Reports of the United States Employment Service, made public in Washington, show that employment increased in both St. Paul and Minneapolis during September. The increase in St. Paul was 3.6 per cent, while in Minneapolis it was 8.2 per cent. Of St. Paul, the report says: manufacturing continued steady through the month, although there has been no measurable improvement."

In Duluth, it is stated, building continues to increase, confined, however, to residences and public buildings. September has shown a slight improvement in general business, due in part to the heavy grain movement through this port. There is no change in the steel plants, which have been very quiet since early spring. Transient or migratory workers make up a large part of the unemployment.

An increase of 17,387,812 bushels was shown in receipts of grain at Duluth and Superior elevators during September, in spite of the checking up of the movement during the last ten days of the month through wet weather interfering with threshing.

The aggregate was 23,193,159 bushels as compared with only 5,805,347 bushels during the same month last year.

The public is beginning to realize that the "rum runner" is, in point of fact, a smuggler who is trying to evade the revenue laws, and is on all fours with any other criminals who violate the laws of the country.

The Omaha World-Herald expresses the fear that they will have so many subjects to discuss at the disarmament conference that perhaps they won't reach the subject of disarmament at all.

The Central Minnesota Educational Association will hold an interesting meeting at the State Teachers' college, St. Cloud, on Oct. 13 and 14. Speakers of national reputation are on the program.

Small Game Plentiful in Alberta

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 10.—One of the lures of Alberta is the fall shooting, and duck, prairie chicken and Hungarian partridge are unusually plentiful this year.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 10.—Interest in the North Dakota political fight turned to Washington today where A. C. Townley, president of National Non-partisan League, was scheduled to file an appeal in connection with his conviction in Minnesota courts on a charge of violating Minnesota espionage laws during the war. Should the supreme court uphold the decision of the Minnesota tribunals, the Non-Partisan leader would have to serve a 90-day sentence in the Jackson county jail.

What effect the incarceration of Townley might have on the present political fight in North Dakota was a matter of conjecture today. The recall election, in which Independents seek to recall Non-Partisan state officers, is scheduled for Oct. 28. Independents hope to oust Governor Frazier, Attorney General William Lemke and Commissioner of Agriculture John Hagen.

It was believed no decision in the Townley case could be reached in the supreme court before Oct. 28. If it is, commitment probably would not take place before that time.

Ice Cream Men Meet

Minneapolis, Oct. 10.—Ice cream manufacturers of the county joined others interested in dairy and allied industries here today. They will discuss problems affecting the ice cream industry, as well as witness the National Dairy show, now in progress.

Governor's Day At Dairy Show

St. Paul, Oct. 10.—This was Governor's Day at the National Dairy show. In addition to the events scheduled as a part of governor's day program, one of the most important meetings of Dairy Show week was to be held. That was the annual session of the American Dairy Science association.

The dairy exposition got under way Saturday and today and was expected to be one of the biggest attendance days of the week. Tomorrow breeders of Ayrshire and Brown Swiss cattle will shine. Judging of these two breeds will take place in the morning.

Weird Story Develops From Priest's Murder

(United Press)

Redwood City, Cal., Oct. 10.—William Hightower, baker, dreamer and man of mystery, went to trial today, charged with kidnapping and murder of the Rev. Father Patrick Heslin, priest of the parish of Colma, on the outskirts of San Francisco.

The trial was expected to bring to light a story which would read like the wildest of fiction—like the most sensational of the old fashioned yellow-backed novels.

It was expected to run the gamut from brutal crime to the story of an idealist, worshipping a beautiful girl whom he never saw and whom he refused ever to see.

Father Heslin was kidnapped by a "foreigner," who called one foggy night at the parish house in Colma and asked him to "minister a dying friend." He was last seen alive driving away in the mist in an automobile with dimmed lights.

Two weeks later, when hopes of finding him had all but vanished, Hightower came to a newspaper office and offered to lead a party to the last resting place of Father Heslin.

Newspaper men and police followed Hightower to the cliffs of Calada Beach, on the coast 30 miles from San Francisco. There they opened a rude grave in a ledge on the side of the cliffs and dragged out the crumpled body of the loved padre.

The body was still dressed in its clerical robe of black; and on it was found in a velvet case, the bread and wine for the last sacrament; a silver disk bearing the images of Christ and the Blessed Virgin.

"How did you know where this grave was located," Hightower immediately was asked.

His reply was a story comparable in weirdness to the crime with which he is charged.

A drunken Greek, he said, had called upon a woman of the night life—Dolly Mason—showed her a gun and told her:

"That gun has killed a man and he is buried. But he isn't alone. A man always frying flapjacks sits watching his grave."

Officers looked up and there, not 50 feet away was the sign familiar throughout the west—the picture of an old miner frying flapjacks over a little fire.

Hightower's story was too weird for officers to believe. He knew too much. "Dolly Mason" could not be found. That is, they could not find the right Dolly Mason. For on Mason, Taylor and the other streets of San Francisco's primeiro way "Dolly Mason" is a name as popular as John Smith in the telephone directory.

Hightower was arrested in less than 24 hours after Father Heslin's body was found.

He continued to tell weird stories, but he never confessed.

Then he appealed to his "Dream Girl." She proved to be Peggy Curtis Tree, playwright of Sacramento. He admitted he had never seen her, but he gave out his correspondence with her. He had seen her picture, taken her as his ideal of womanhood and carried on with her a correspondence which startled the west with his philosophy, its power and its sparkling humor.

Peggy True called to see him—but he would not see her. She still must remain the "Dream Girl" and "inspiration" for this most remarkable of alleged criminals.

Friends came to Hightower's assistance—and now the dreamer, idealist, philosopher, itinerant baker, whose wanderings carried him throughout the southwest and finally to San Francisco and a jail cell—will fight to the last ditch the charge that he called a priest from his sanctuary on an errand of mercy and murdered him to collect a ransom of only $6,500.

Evidently Did Not Fear Washington.

David Burns owned the farm on which the executive mansion and many department buildings now stand at Washington, a thrifty Scot, who objected to giving the land for Lafayette square. When Washington reminded him he would have been a poor tobacco raiser had the federal government not chosen his farm, he replied that but for a fortunate marriage Washington would have been an ordinary surveyor, but Washington got the land he wanted.

THRILLS IN STORE FOR NEWSPAPERMEN

(By United Press.)

Honolulu, Hawaii, Oct. 10.—Thrills occasioned by riding the surf in outrigger canoes or on native surf boards, or standing on the rim of the continuously active volcano of Kilauea and gazing down into the roaring, tossing sea of molten lava, have an active rival in the keen excitement that accompanies the hunting of the shark in the waters outside the coral reef that encircles the island of Oahu.

Newspapermen who are coming to Honolulu today as delegates to the Press Congress of the World will find that shark hunting goes hand in hand with other sports, and, although intensely exciting, is in no way dangerous. The shark hunters go to sea in a launch or sampan which tows a dead white horse. When the fishing grounds are reached, the boat begins to circle about, and soon the fins of sharks may be seen cutting through the water.

If one is an expert, he may harpoon a shark as it turns over to strike, or he may try his luck with a high-powered rifle. The shark is a furious fighter and, once harpooned or caught with hook and line, displays amazing strength. But he finally tires and is gradually hauled aboard and then dispatched.

There are few Hawaiians living today who care to meet a shark in the open water and fight him as his ancestors did. In the olden days a Hawaiian armed himself with a hard, wooden, double-pointed javelin, about 18 inches long, and with the center portion large enough to permit a good grip. He then let himself down into the water. As the shark approached and turned over to strike, its great jaws open to their full width, the

In the olden days a Hawaiian armed himself with a hard, wooden, double-pointed javelin, about 18 inches long, and with the center portion large enough to permit a good grip. He then let himself down into the water. As the shark approached and turned over to strike, its great jaws open to their full width, the Hawaiian, with a quick movement, thrust the javelin between the jaws, one point penetrating the roof of the mouth and the other the lower jaw. The shark, thus unable to close his mouth, and helpless, was either speared or allowed to swim away as the Hawaiian chose.

Nels Peterson, age 37, single, a painter of Minneapolis, was the victim of a hunting accident late Saturday afternoon while out hunting with a friend in the Platte Lake country south of Brainerd.

He pulled a loaded shotgun from his automobile and the gun was accidentally discharged, the shot mangle his right fore arm and coming out at the elbow. He suffered considerably from loss of blood before he could be brought to the Northwestern hospital. Surgeons are doing everything possible to save the arm, and amputation will only occur as a last resource.

Nelson has had experience as a hunter and served with distinction in the World war.

FAKE AGENTS IN FRAUD

Sell "Options" on Dodge Cars in U. S. Service, Then Disappear—Public Warned Against Crooks

Although a number of arrests have been made as a result of the fraudulent practice, the War Department reports that persons in various parts of the country are still being victimized by individuals who pretend to be able to obtain Dodge Brothers motor cars from the government at bargain prices. The usual method, it is said, is to sell "options" on the cars, which are represented as being still in the original shipping crates, the war having ended before they were used. Once the "option" price is obtained, of course, the "agent" never reappears.

As Dodge Brothers motor car was selected by the government as the official car of its class for service with the army during the world war, an enormous number of these cars were equipped for the American training camps and expeditionary forces. At the conclusion of the war the various branches of the army had fully 20,000 Dodge Brothers cars and almost immediately it was rumored that these cars were to be sold at ridiculously low figures by the government. It was a great opportunity for crooks. They went from town to town pretending that they had acquired options on large stocks of the cars, all in first class condition, and were prepared to sell these options for $25 or $30 sometimes more. The result was that both Dodge Brothers and the War Department were flooded with inquiries as to when and where the cars might be obtained. Warnings were issued, arrests were made and for a time the fraud died out.

CLUB'S OFFICERS ARE ELECTED
Committee on Location for All-Brainerd Skating Rink Reports Ladies Served Refreshments

The Northeast Brainerd Improvement League held its regular annual meeting at the Lowell school Thursday evening, October 6.

The program was a splendid one and the business transacted showed enthusiastic interest in this neighborhood organization.

The first number on the program was a saxophone quartette composed of Dr. M. H. Carlson, Ernest Crust, Winfred Edling and Frank Kaufman with Vivian Bloomstrom, pianist.

Mrs. W. C. Rasch made a strong plea for the support of the public library.

Mrs. J. H. Herbert gave a talk on community needs.

O. J. Bouma, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce asked for the cooperation of this neighborhood organization.

Oscar Henning gave a solo "Where the West Begins."

After another selection by the saxophone quartette, President Edward Crust called the meeting to order and asked for the report of the committee on ornamental lighting who reported that the matter of lighting Kindred street was in the hands of the city council.

The committee on skating rink reported that no arrangements have been made for a location for the all-Brainerd skating rink but C. W. Keering was called upon for a few remarks and assured the committee that they might secure the use of the ball park for the winter which was heartily applauded.

Next order of business was the election of officers. Rev. J. E. Caldwell was elected President to succeed Edward Crust; Mrs. J. H. Herbert, Vice-President; Hugo A. Kaatz, Secretary and Richard Ilse, Treasurer.

The retiring president was called upon for a few remarks.

The newly elected president, Rev. J. E. Caldwell, made a strong plea for a community center and after the matter was discussed a committee was appointed consisting of Edward Crust, and Richard Ilse to confer with the school board regarding the use of the school for meeting place until other arrangements could be made.

The ladies of the club served coffee and doughnuts and everyone voted the meeting a decided success.

GOVERNMENT RAILROAD CONTROL IN WAR COST ENGLAND NEARLY BILLION DOLLARS

WAGES NOT CONCERNED IN RESTORATION TO PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

By LLOYD ALLEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
London, Oct. 10.—Britain's railroads—after seven years of governmental control—have been returned to private management and the British taxpayer is approximately three-quarters of a billion dollars poorer—181,081,149 pounds sterling, to be exact.

Today it's safe to say the British people generally rejoice at the termination of state interference in the railroad business.

Moreover, the man in the street is undoubtedly convinced that "nationalization" of the roads would prove a very questionable and probably costly innovation, and he would point to wartime curtailed services and costly passenger fares, to prove his contention that any socialization or semi-socialization is doomed to utter failure.

Because the British are essentially modest about proclaiming themselves "efficient," the world at large is virtually ignorant of the speedy express trains that in normal times run at world-record speeds. Also it's not generally known that the British railroad companies and their workers have highly complex, self-adjusting wage scales that automatically and with very little real friction keep the rate of pay at a definite figure, as compared with the cost of living.

Wherefore, the transfer of these gigantic properties from governmental to private control was accomplished without any special discussion regarding wages, since this problem had been adjusted many months previously.

Also, the whole question of governmental remuneration to the companies had been taken care of by means of an arrangement whereby the government guaranteed the railroad managements to keep the net receipts, while under state control, equal to the 1913 earnings.

Regular payments were made from the state, subject to later refunds from the companies should super-audited statistics show any over-payment.

Here it was, that the state treasury suffered. By the time de-control arrived, August 15, 1921, the state had paid out 121,981,149 pounds, while an additional figure of approximately 60,000,000 pounds remains to be paid.

These sums were transferred in three payments, the first of which was made March 31, 1920. Previous to this date receipts had balanced expenditures.

Added to the public cost of state control is still another item of some 4,000,000 pounds for the railroad companies of Ireland.

Britain has accepted these huge losses with very little grumbling, because they represent a small portion of the staggering cost of the great war.

Throughout the terrific struggle, the British railroads never broke down, and it is believed here the roads stood the strain better than the railroads of any other belligerent.

Experts explain that Britain's practice of constructing the solidest kind of roadbeds and bridges, and the consistent use of light-weight rolling stock accounts for the war-time efficiency.

Principal cause of huge losses in state operation of the roads is attributed to general inauguration of the eight hour day, necessitating employment of 76,000 men, costing 15,600,000 pounds yearly, to which must be added war-time wage increases to the regular personnel. Comparative pre-war and war time wage bills are as follows:

1913 annual wages, 47,500,000 pounds

1920 annual wages, 113,000,000 pounds
1921 estimated 173,000,000 pounds

Under the present wage arrangement the men get an additional shilling for every increase of five points in an index figure of the cost of living, as compiled by the Ministry of Labor.

Downward trend of the living cost entails wage reductions in the same proportion, until a definitely fixed low level is reached, whereafter the wages remain stationary and cannot be reduced further.

By act of Parliament, the British roads are to group themselves into four great amalgamations which will be completed by January 1, 1923. Each group will have its directorate thereby eliminating scores of board of directors now functioning.

Sir Eric Geddes, who was wartime Minister of Transportation, is reported to have estimated an annual saving of approximately 30,000,000 pounds, though less optimistic prophets put the gain at four million.

Simultaneously with railroad de-control, the companies inaugurated cheap excursion rates. Coming at the peak of the vacation season this move highly pleased millions of holidayers. Regular fares remain approximately 75 per cent over pre-war rates.

Furthermore, people were prone to associate cheaper rates, after months of almost prohibitive fares, with private ownership, although the state some months previously had granted permission for the companies to take such a step, but the great coal strike intervened and rendered reduction of fares under state management impossible.

Arguments of this character, together with a vivid remembrance of the palmy pre-war days of cheap fares and extensive train services, make the case for resumption and continuation of private ownership rather strong, in the mind of the man in the street.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for thousands of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, says a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of those countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide the medical assistance needed to restore these children to a normally healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

THE GIANTS EVEN SERIES WITH YANKS IN SUNDAY GAME

BEAT AMERICAN LEAGUE CLUB BY SCORE OF 4 TO 2 IN SHORT SNAPPY GAME

NOTWITHSTANDING BABE RUTH MADE HOME RUN—MAYS ON SLAB FOR THE YANKS

New York, Oct. 10.—"Babe" Ruth made a home run at the Polo grounds Sunday but the hit, a tremendous wallop into the right field bleachers, came in the ninth with nobody on bases and failed to save the Yankees from defeat in the fourth game of the world's series.

The Giants won, 4 to 2, evening the count at two victories each.

Gate is 36,000

The game, a snappy, quick contest was witnessed by more than 36,000 persons, a few hundred less than the record crowd of last Friday.

For seven innings it looked like a repetition of last Wednesday's pitchers' battle between Carl Mays and Phil Douglas, these two twirlers again being pitted against each other. Then, in the eighth, the Giants broke through Mays' guard and scored three runs—enough to win—by a pretty exhibition of consecutive batting.

The Giants added another, but, as it turned out, unnecessary run in the ninth. The Yankees were able to hit Douglas consecutively only in the fifth, when they scored once, their other tally being accounted for by Ruth with his four-base blow.

Ruth Surprises Fans

That the "Babe" appeared in the game at all was a big surprise to the fans. It had been feared his injured arm would keep him out of the play for the remainder of the series; and even Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees did not expect, up to an hour before the game, that Ruth would be in the lineup today, announcing that "Chick" Fawcett would take his place in left field. It developed, however, that Ruth, determined to play, had his arm well plastered up and shortly after 1:30 p. m. he came on the field in uniform and to all appearance as fit as ever.

The sight of "Babe's" bulky figure drew a big welcome from the crowd, which was repeated many fold when he made his circuit hit in the ninth. He handled his two fielding chances cleanly. There was nothing in his work at the bat to indicate that his injured arm was handicapping him in the least. He did not, however, try to steal any bases.

Ruth Happy Now

"I have realized one of my greatest ambitions—to make a home run in the world's series," Ruth said after the game, "but I'm sorry it did not come with men on bases. It might have meant the winning of the game."

HOW THE FARMER WILL BE AIDED

DIRECTOR OF THE WAR FINANCE CORPORATION ON THE AGRICULTURAL RELIEF ACT.

Meets Present Conditions by Assisting in the Carrying of Farm Products So They Can Be Marketed More Slowly.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Seemingly officials of government directly charged with the work of administering the agricultural relief act, which was passed by congress and approved by the President recently, believe that the legislation is to bring some of the results which are desired. Experience alone probably will determine the outcome, but the War Finance corporation is planning the work and is expressing confidence in real accomplishment.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., is the managing director of the War Finance corporation. His views on the agricultural relief act ought to be of interest, for his organization is charged with the work of its administration. His views, to be approved, or perhaps combatted, according to the viewpoint, are as follows:

"The agricultural relief act is a measure of great significance to our agricultural interests. It is a very constructive piece of legislation, and, in my opinion, is thoroughly workable from the administrative point of view. It recognizes the new conditions existing in our international and domestic trade and aims to meet these conditions by giving the War Finance corporation power to assist in financing the carrying of agricultural commodities until they can be marketed in an orderly way.

"The inability and unwillingness of foreign merchants and manufacturers to purchase the greater part of their requirements for the years during the period immediately following the harvesting of our crops, as they are accustomed to do in normal times, coupled with the failure of our own merchants and manufacturers to carry normal stocks, has brought about a situation which makes it necessary for us to market our staple agricultural products over a longer period than usual.

Cotton Situation an Example.

"This situation is clearly indicated in the following extract from a report from an investigator of the Department of Agriculture, who is now in Europe studying the markets there for American agricultural products:

"The cotton merchants over here in the countries visited do not think it sound business for American shippers or banks to advance too much credit to the cotton mills. They say that the mills can arrange the necessary credits with local banks to buy cotton if only they can show an outlet for the goods; that extending liberal credit to the mills assumed by the mill and may lead to speculative ventures on the part of the mills.

"The merchants point out that mills should buy cotton only as they are able to sell goods profitably and then that the mill should cover its requirements with cotton close at hand. They go so far as to say that the merchant should sell cotton on call for the mill to fix the price when the goods are sold. This suggestion seems unsound to me, as it involves too great a risk for the seller, making him take chances which rightfully fall on the manufacturer. But at any rate the suggestion that reasonable stocks should be placed in the leading European markets and hedged in dollars, seems sound.

Exchange Rate Interferes.

"The price can be fixed when the sale is consummated and at a rate of exchange which is taken into consideration when the price is determined. These merchants point out that they cannot carry large stocks as in former years as a change in the rate of exchange might cause serious losses, and that therefore they must of necessity buy cotton only as it is needed. If they follow out this plan it will mean safe business to European mills, but a slow and long drawn-out cotton season back in America, and cotton growers might as well make their plans to market their crop gradually as the demand warrants.

"The pressing need at the present time, therefore, is for additional facilities to finance our staple agricultural products so that they can be marketed more gradually than formerly. The agricultural relief act aims to provide these facilities along sound lines, and in a way that will be helpful not only to the producers themselves, but also to the whole business of the country.

"It should be clearly understood that the act is an emergency measure, designed to meet the abnormal conditions now confronting us. Experience in connection with its administration, however, should enable us to determine to what extent, if any, additional financial machinery of a permanent character is necessary to take care of the marketing of our staple agricultural products in an orderly way under normal conditions."

No, Maude, dear; when you feel like stamping your feet it isn't necessary to go to the postoffice.

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO RESTORE COLOR, GLOSS AND ATTRACTIVENESS

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft-brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BLADDER BOTHERS YOU

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Meets Present Conditions by Assisting in the Carrying of Farm Products So They Can Be Marketed More Slowly.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Seemingly officials of government directly charged with the work of administering the agricultural relief act, which was passed by congress and approved by the President recently, believe that the legislation is to bring some of the results which are desired. Experience alone probably will determine the outcome, but the War Finance corporation is planning the work and is expressing confidence in real accomplishment.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., is the managing director of the War Finance corporation. His views on the agricultural relief act ought to be of interest, for his organization is charged with the work of its administration. His views, to be approved, or perhaps combatted, according to the viewpoint, are as follows:

"The agricultural relief act is a measure of great significance to our agricultural interests. It is a very constructive piece of legislation, and, in my opinion, is thoroughly workable from the administrative point of view. It recognizes the new conditions existing in our international and domestic trade and aims to meet these conditions by giving the War Finance corporation power to assist in financing the carrying of agricultural commodities until they can be marketed in an orderly way.

"The inability and unwillingness of foreign merchants and manufacturers to purchase the greater part of their requirements for the years during the period immediately following the harvesting of our crops, as they are accustomed to do in normal times, coupled with the failure of our own merchants and manufacturers to carry normal stocks, has brought about a situation which makes it necessary for us to market our staple agricultural products over a longer period than usual.

Cotton Situation an Example.

"This situation is clearly indicated in the following extract from a report from an investigator of the Department of Agriculture, who is now in Europe studying the markets there for American agricultural products:

"The cotton merchants over here in the countries visited do not think it sound business for American shippers or banks to advance too much credit to the cotton mills. They say that the mills can arrange the necessary credits with local banks to buy cotton if only they can show an outlet for the goods; that extending liberal credit from America will tend to increase the risks assumed by the mill and may lead to speculative ventures on the part of the mills.

"The merchants point out that mills should buy cotton only as they are able to sell goods profitably and then that the mill should cover its requirements with cotton close at hand. They go so far as to say that the merchant should sell cotton on call for the mill to fix the price when the goods are sold. This suggestion seems unsound to me, as it involves too great a risk for the seller, making him take chances which rightfully fall on the manufacturer. But at any rate the suggestion that reasonable stocks should be placed in the leading European markets and hedged in dollars, seems sound.

Exchange Rate Interferes.
"The price can be fixed when the sale is consummated and at a rate of exchange which is taken into consideration when the price is determined. These merchants point out that they cannot carry large stocks as in former years as a change in the rate of exchange might cause serious losses, and that therefore they must of necessity buy cotton only as it is needed. If they follow out this plan it will mean safe business to European mills, but a slow and long drawn-out cotton season back in America, and cotton growers might as well make their plans to market their crop gradually as the demand warrants.

"The pressing need at the present time, therefore, is for additional facilities to finance our staple agricultural products so that they can be marketed more gradually than formerly. The agricultural relief act aims to provide these facilities along sound lines, and in a way that will be helpful not only to the producers themselves, but also to the whole business of the country.

"It should be clearly understood that the act is an emergency measure, designed to meet the abnormal conditions now confronting us. Experience in connection with its administration, however, should enable us to determine to what extent, if any, additional financial machinery of a permanent character is necessary to take care of the marketing of our staple agricultural products in an orderly way under normal conditions."

No, Maude, dear; when you feel like stamping your feet it isn't necessary to go to the postoffice.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BLADDER BOTHERS YOU

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.
